Wolf Ridge Camper and Parent Agreement

Wolf Ridge's Summer Camp Program strives to introduce its participants to new experiences and opportunities for learning. The staff works together to keep children safe while allowing them to have fun and learn. It is our responsibility to do this. The campers and parents also have a responsibility for making the session successful. This agreement outlines some of the things we expect of campers and parents. Thank you for reading and agreeing to follow these guidelines of behavior while at Wolf Ridge.

General Wolf Ridge Policies

Behavior expectations: Wolf Ridge's Summer Camp is place where people of many different backgrounds come to enjoy the outdoors and build new friendships. We ask that all participants join us with a mind open to new ideas, activities, and people. Sometimes campers are not prepared to be a part of the Wolf Ridge Camp Community and their behaviors require attention. Our staff does their best to address these behaviors as they arise but other actions may be required to maintain Wolf Ridge as a safe and open place for all campers. These actions include:

- Removing the camper from an activity or group
- Calling home for a discussion with parents
- Requesting that the parents pick up the camper early.

Conservation, Recycling, and Kitchen Patrol While staying at Wolf Ridge, we may live a little differently that you do at home. Our hope is to model conservation behaviors as best we can. This includes being aware of how we use our resources and how we can conserve these resources. We try to turn out lights when we are not using them, recycle and reuse materials that we can, and pick up trash around campus. As a community, we all help with the day-to-day chores of Wolf Ridge including helping to serve food and to clean up in the dining hall, keeping our living space clean, and transferring recyclable materials from the dorm to the recycling station.

Snacks Wolf Ridge provides three meals a day in the dining hall or on the trail. An evening snack is also available. Please leave personal snacks at home. Snacks in the bedrooms of the dormitory lead to messes and attract wildlife into the dormitory. If snacks are brought, the counselors will collect, label and store them in a safe place until the last day of the session, when they will be returned for the trip home.

Electronic devices Please save using radios, compact disc players, cell phones, electronic games for the trip to and from Wolf Ridge. Any such devices brought to Wolf Ridge will be collected by the Wolf Ridge Staff and returned before departure.

Telephones Are generally unavailable for participants and should be used only with the permission of the program directors. Please leave cell phones at home. Feel free to call our office during business hours to check in with the directors of the program, but realize that parents will not be able to speak to campers directly at that time.

Rest hour Every afternoon, all participants at Wolf Ridge's Summer Camp have an hour of rest until the afternoon activities begin. This is a time to catch up on sleep, read, write letters, play silent individual games, draw, and relax. It is a time of needed recuperation from group activities. Please be prepared for this time by bringing writing or drawing materials, and books.
